The Greenville News says: "A rumor prevails which seems to wear a very creditable shape and bears investigation well, that the Main Line will again be changed back to Greenville during the coming week. The Daily News can almost confidently predict this most happy turn of affairs, but will not 'holler,' "We would not be at all surprised at this change. During the Fall and Winter months, when business is flush, the Railroad can afford to run a through train to Greenville, but when the dull months of the Summer come it is necessary to seek the business of prosperous places like the city of Anderson to keep the through line basy. This change, however, has not yet been made, and perhaps will not. It would, however, make very little difference if it should be done.

The meeting at Honea Path on last Sat-The meeting at Honea Path on last Sat unday was the largest and most enthusiastic gathering yet had in the County canvass. The greater part of the day was consumed in the speaking, and we have never seen people give better attention from beginning to end. Notwithstanding the cloudy weather, there was a considerable number of ladies present, and throughout the meeting was pleasant and harmonious. The hospitality of the citizens of Honea Path was shown in the excellent preparations for the meeting, their courteous attention, and last, but far from being least, in the numerous invitations to all visitors to dine at their houses during the recess. Every one was delighted with the manner in which Honea Path gets up and conducts a meeting.

The County candidates' meeting at Craytonville on last Thursday was conducted under very adverse circumstances. The enterprising citizens of this community had erected a stand and comfortable seats for the speaking, and arranged for a most pleasant meeting. The weather, however, was so unfavorable that only a few ladies and about a hundred men were present. The rain, which fell constantly, necessitated the use of the school house, which was rather crowded by the number present. There were about fifteen speeches made during the day, and the best of attention was given the speakers. At the conclusion of this part of the programme the rain ceased, and a most bountiful basket dinner was fully enjoyed by all present. In spite of the unfavorable weather, the meeting was pleasant and very well attended.

Death of an Excellent Young Man.

Death of an Excellent Young Man.

On last Friday morning, our community was saddened by the announcement of the death of one of our most promising young men, J. A. McSwain Carlisle.

Mr. Carlisle was born. June 8th, 1860. About five years ago, he joined the Methodist Church in this place, during the pastorate of Rev. H. F. Chrictzberg. From that time he lived a consistent Christian life, as a member of the church. He was, for about three and a half years, in the office of the Clerk of the Court, first as a copyist, and then as Deputy Clerk, where he made himself very popular by his steady and intelligent application to business, and polite attention to all who came in contact with him. About the middle of last month he was taken sick, and gradually grew worse, until last Friday morning about sun-rise, when he died, leaving to his bereaved parents and friends strong assurance of his leadiness to depart. They "sorrow not, even as others which have no hope."

The funeral services were held in the lecture-room of the Presbyterian Church, being conducted by Rev. J. E. Carlisle asthre-room of the Presbyterian Church, being conducted by Rev. J. E. Carlisle, assisted by Rev. D. E. Frierson, D. D., after which the remains were interred in the Presbyterian burial ground.

The Railroad Bridge.

After very many efforts by our City Council to induce the Railroad Compar y to have the bridge over Main street repairel, the railroad authorities on last Monday evening sent lumber and hands to begin the work of repair on Tuesday morning, but before daylight one of the sleepers of the bridge, which was rear sleepers of the bridge, which was very rotten, fell across the track. The down freight, however, discovered the obstruc-tion in time to prevent an acci lent. The tion in time to prevent an acci lent. The construction carpenters, after this practical evidence of the insecurity, determined to build the bridge anew, and we will soon have a safe bridge there. It is a wonder that some serious accident had not occurred on this bridge, for it was constantly passed by heavily loaded wagons and other vehicles—even steam engines. When uncovered the sills and sleepers were discovered to be in a very rotten condition. Our City Council is looking into the right of the Council to require the road to carry out its original contract into the right of the Council to require the road to carry out its original contract and bridge the chasm all the way over the street. This should be done, both for the looks and for the convenience of the City. The bridge there heretofore has been rather narrow for so important a horoughfare. Sunday's Storm.

The storm of last Sunday was very severe in this County, uprooting trees, blowing down fences and the crops of corn, cotton, &c., in every part of the County. The wind was accompanied with heavy rain, which greatly augmented the damage by flooding the bottom lands and washing down the corn. A more general storm has down the corn. A more general storm has never been known in this country, and take the County over, we have never had one to do more widespread injury to the crops. There were hundreds of acres of bottom There were hundreds of acres of bottom land submerged by water on Sunday afternoon and Monday, and the corn, both upland and bottom, was in nearly every instance blown over by the wind. The result will be that we will have a great deal of injured grain. The cotton also is badly blown down. A great many of the farmers do not this it will be injured, but we fear the weight of fruit now upon the stalk will prevent it from rising, and unless it is kept nicked out as fast as it opens, every rain prevent it from rising, and unless it is kept picked out as fast as it opens, every rain will stain and injure the quality of the cotion. There were no casualties in our County as far as we have heard, though in some of the lower Counties the papers bring us news of several deaths from falling trees and from drowning. The storm raged over the greater portion of this State and Georgia, but strange to say, while all this destruction was visiting other parts of the State, the sun was shining bright upon the charteston, where we expected to hear of the most serious ravages of the tempest.

An Unjust Charge.

Mr. Editors: Several weeks ago a man named Patterson established a distillery in the Friendship section of Anderson County for the purpose of distilling brandy from fruits, but the sentiment of our neighborhood was so strong against having a distillery in our midst, that very few persons patronized Patterson. About two weeks ago, when he had about finished all the fruit he could get, his stands of apples and peaches, which amounted to little or nothing, were, in the night time, destroyed. It is not known who committed this act, but Patterson has procured warrants for several of our leading citizens in the United States Courts charging them with the deed. The charge made by Patterson is false, and can be established beyond a doubt. Patterson could have found out that the gentlemen charged were entirely innocent, had he desired to obtain the truth. In fact, the best people in this part of the County do not believe that any person committed the act which Patterson charges. In justice to our people, we ask that you publish this article.

The above-named united World's Fair of living wonders, including the most supendous Menagerie, Caravan Museum and Circus ever organized, will mass its multitude of amusements marvels at Anderson C. H., on Tuesday, October 3rd. Not only is it an entirely new, bright and brilliant, but also a massive, solid, honest railroad show, owning its own splendid outfit of cars bringing savage Nature in all the majestic illustrations of her living lessons, directly to your doors, and added thereto, a far greater and purer circus than you have ever seen. No such collection of rare wild beasts and birds has ever before been concentrated under canvass. Every continent has contributed to its completeness, as every equestrian organization of the great foreign capitals and every leading gymnastic school of the whole world has furnished representatives to complete the largest representatives to complete the largest and most brilliantly artistic circus over organized on this continent, and one in which each performer is a special star, and one and all simply incomparable, while worlds of humorous folly and a varied programme of astonishing animal acts complete an entertainment which is the very acme of arenic achievement.

Editors Anderson Intelligencer:

BY offering ourselves as candidates for re-election to the high and honorable position of "Leaders of Low Prices," we are not alone actuated by motives of self-interest, but will in a few words demonstrate the just claims which we possess to that enviable and much sought-after office. A retrospective glance at our labors is, in view of the strong support we have received the seven years past, unnecessary. That support alone speaks unnistakably in syllables sweet and encouraging, "Well done," and imparts to us new motive-power for untiring and ceaseless efforts, not alone to continue to receive kind and practical encomiums, but to render ourselves still more worthy of them.

For two months past we have watched, studied and taken advantage of the New York market, and we can supplement our past record with bright promises for better and more chective work during the next session of Fall and Winter Business. Our long experience and acquaintance with the leaders of the "Dry Goods Party" has given us a more thorough inside view of the machinery, wire-pulling and assessment plan of this truly great and powerful party, and the many beneficial results are obvious. We thus know the closest and lowest terms that can be made, we know the headquarters of each committee, where located and who the chairman is, as for instance the different committees on "Hosiery," "Gloves," "Laces," "Prints," "Domestic Goods," "Notions," "Silks," "Linen Goods," etc., etc., etc., and are therefore in a position to procure appropriations in the shape of Bargains for our hundreds of customers.

But we also have affiliated ourselves more so than ever before with the "Boot and Shoe Association" and the "Clothing Prohibition Club"—two influential bodies, to which none but large and cash buyers can gain admission. This secures us the exclusive control of the best makes of foot-gear at immensely low rates, and we have no heastiancy in saying that during the coming campaign we are beyond the reach of any would-be competitor, and are confident of an im
